An effective measurement method was developed for evaluating and measuring the resistance of lettuce and cabbage plants to scab (Erwinia tracheiphila). Individual plants from eight cultivars and two selected hybrid varieties of lettuce (Lactuca sativa L. var. pumila Capitata) and cabbage (Brassica oleracea L. var. Botrytis L. var. capitata) were inoculated with spores of the scab pathogen. The range of daily maximum temperature was determined for each group of plants. The quantitative resistance of plants to scab ( $Q(t)$ ) was determined by calculating a z-score, which is the total number of seeds harvested from a plant divided by the standard deviation of the total number of seeds harvested from all inoculated plants. The area of necrosis on the inoculated leaves was also determined for each plant and correlated with the z-score. Accurate measurement of the time of scab appearance and leaf necrosis was also determined. The method used in this investigation provides a means to rank cultivars of lettuce and cabbage based upon their susceptibility to scab.Junior middleweight contender Juan Herardo Burgos (24-1) will move up to the 160-pound junior middleweight division to take on undefeated prospect Miguel Flores (27-0) on July 22 at the StubHub Center in Carson, Calif. in the fourth main event of a SHOWTIME CHAMPIONSHIP BOXING telecast. The bout will be Burgos' first against a 140-pound fighter, having fought in the 130-pound division the last five of his previous nine wins. The 28-year-old from Salamanca, Spain scored a 12-round unanimous decision over nine-division titleholder Amir Khan in December. A native of Salinas, Calif., Flores took the middleweight national title from Mexico's Robert Garcia in March. Burgos and Garcia's September 2009 super-bantamweight title bout was the show's first televised championship bout since 2008. "I'm very happy to be fighting in the 160-pound division
