Spirits are high this week at the Magno Mall, along with the economic gains in most areas of the country. The Spirit of Life rally with joyous participation bringing two thousand, two hundred fifty brave spirits to the mall this week was part of a nation-wide spiritually-based group, "Are you willing to live a life of love and peace". It is a group that is in tune with spirit and life, and seeks to inspire and uplift the spirits of the people. In essence, this is the same as a well-known Buddhist group, The Compassionate Mind Foundation, but the two non-profits have different methods and goals. The event was hosted by Rev. John Nachael, founder of "A Life of Love and Peace", and Rev. F.A. Dickenson, a renowned author and ordained pastor.

These two asked the crowd to become the “people of peace”, and to work towards world peace through the power of love. Speakers included Rev. Ken LaVera and a comedian, Carl James. Two raffles were part of the event with all proceeds going to the “A Life of Love and Peace” organization.

Spirits were extremely friendly, and everyone was of good cheer, enjoying a sense of well-being, good fellowship, and a sense of compassion. On the other hand, people are still struggling economically, as the economy is taking a turn for the worse. The older members of the crowd spoke of the many hard times that they have seen in the past few decades and mentioned how these times were worse than all other economic hardships combined. One woman with her shoulders slumped and her eyes shivering, who is a recent newcomer to the area and does not know anyone here, asked what can be done to help the needy. The Rev. Nachael responded that it is the people
