Overview:

A diagram of the world of the Elden Ring and the characters who inhabit it. Characters face threats for their own reasons. All of them, regardless of their names or genders, quest to find the truth that lies behind the Door of Fate in the same time and place. But there are times when unanticipated situations arrive and change the lives of characters.

What is Fantasy RPG?

When the Elden Ring was first established, the Elder System was established. Fantasy RPG means a game where the past, present, and future all coexist. In other words, there is an Elden Ring, and there are also Elden Lords in the Lands Between. As in the Elder System, each of the Lords has their own history. Many historical characters from the Elden Ring universe have character tags.

Let's get started!

Getting started with Fantasy RPG! When you play the game, you are in the same world as the characters you play as.

How can I delete my character?

You can delete your character by speaking to the wizard. With this method, no cutscenes will play during your expedition, and everything left behind by your character will be deleted.

Chapter 1: Before I was a Ruler of my Own Castle

Creating a new character

First, you create a new character by selecting the version to create. You can search for the "typical" characters by gender, from left to right.

Q: Define Custom Protocols with a custom Membership Provider I'm working with MVC 5 and trying to customize the UserProfile using a custom Membership Provider (I don't know why but my provider's name is "MyUserProfileProvider"). I looked at another question here and their solution works fine: How to implement a custom data provider for ASP.NET MVC Membership? My problem is that I would like to extend the ProfileBase object that implements the IProfile interface with my custom properties, so that my custom Login view uses the custom ProfileBase object. I know that I can inherit the ProfileBase class and add my custom properties to it, but I would like to know if there is another way to accomplish this. I'm a bit confused on how to properly work with the custom MembershipProvider and the ProfileBase class. Thanks A: The ProfileBase object implements the IProfile interface, which is why you were able to use it as a model in the Login view. If you are working with custom data, I would recommend creating a model and model binder that you can then pass to your view. If you must do this via a custom profile base (or perhaps just a modified profile base), you can do the following. Note that I have written in pseudo-code, but you can probably read my code and get an idea of what I'm trying to accomplish. Profile model public class Profile { public int Id { get; set; } public string Username { get; set; } public string FirstName { get; set; } public string LastName { get; set; } }
