House of 1,000 Doors: Day of the #House; #of 1000 Doors::20 Beautiful Little Illustrations for Kids Here are 20 stunning and beautiful illustrations for kids! After reading a book, children instantly create their own version of the story for themselves, but not all of them capture the imagination in the same way. These ones, however, do. 1. Dog with Rug Image via Ernesto Arce This simple illustration is a perfect representation of a classic travel story. The illustration highlights the obvious and tells a simple story that ends with the thought, "I wish I had more time to travel!" 2. The Little One Image via Pia Poulos In this lovely illustration, the girl has a wooden spoon in her hand, which she is pulling over to the side and up. The illustrations depicts the power of showing kids that they can succeed. 3. Bouncing Bunnies Image via Anna Miranda The bouncing bunnies tell a story about family travel. Their illustration has beautiful bright colors and adds to the entire aesthetic of the picture. 4. The One Image via E.T.A. Hoffmann This amazing illustration shows a group of kids waiting at a train station for their next adventure. The illustration shows lots of energy and excitement. 5. The Old Man and the Little Turtle Image via Dredge Kirby The little turtle is very much like a child in the way that he is mimicking the old man. It's as if the old man is teaching the little one how to swim, so that he could find his own adventure. 6. Middle of the Night Image via Art Weekly The young boy who is searching for the light of the sun is a victim of the darkness. This illustration has a wonderful relationship to stories that are read in the night, such as "Little House on the Prairie" or "The Wind in the Willows." It is a very metaphorical illustration that shows the struggle of 648931e174
